NEW ANDAZ PENINSULA PAPAGAYO CREATES WAVES BY UNVEILING THE ULTIMATE COSTA RICAN SURF ADVENTURE

The new package allows keen surfers to hit the waves at the surfing mecca of Witch's Rock

The recently launched Andaz Peninsula Papagayo has unveiled a new 'Witch's Rock Package,' providing guests with everything they need to hit the waves in true Costa Rican style. The Andaz brand's first hotel in Latin America boasts access to some of the country's most coveted surf spots and offers guests a true 'pura vida' experience on the picturesque Papagayo Peninsula in the North West Guanacaste region.

The 'Witch's Rock' experience begins with a Liberia airport pickup, for which guests have the option of a funky VW Combi, and continues with a special welcome gift of board shorts or a bikini from Andaz Peninsula Papagayo's Cultural Insiders of Surf, Faherty Brand. Once at the resort, guests will receive a complementary upgrade to an Andaz View Room, daily surfer's breakfast for two, and a full day excursion to nearby surfing hot spot, Witch's Rock National Park. A surfs-up goodie bag includes everything needed for the perfect surf day, including a personalized Andaz Surfboard sock, sunscreen, board wax and a Faherty Brand cap, as well as a professional photographer on hand to document guest's wave riding skills. Finally a beach picnic with chilled wine and beer is the ideal conclusion to a day spent afloat on the azure waters of Papagayo.

For those looking to add an element of relaxation and renewal in the days following their big surf adventure, guests can choose to experience the hotel's ONDA Spa, offering a meditative experience that taps into the power of the surrounding nature to nourish the body and soul. With treatments using natural local ingredients and holistic remedies, the ONDA Spa makes the ultimate respite and comprises nine indoor and outdoor treatment rooms, each with sweeping vistas of forest and sea.
